American Biogas Council Elects Eight New Directors

Washington, D.C. – Last week, the American Biogas Council (ABC) membership elected eight Directors to its Board, including five re-elected Directors and three new Directors. The newly elected Directors are:

- Tony Callendrello, CEO of NEO Energy (new)
- Bill Jorgenson, Managing Partner at Vanguard Renewables (new)
- Craig Frear, Director of Research and Technology at Regenix (new)
- Christine McKiernan, VP of Engineering at BIOFerm Energy Systems, who has served on ABC's Board of Directors in previous terms (re-elected)
- Wayne Davis, Vice President of Harvest Power, Inc. (re-elected)
- Amy McCrae Kessler, EVP and Head of Environmental & Regulatory Affairs at Turning Earth LLC (re-elected)
- Norma McDonald, North American Sales Manager at Organic Waste Systems (re-elected)
- Bernie Sheff, Vice President of Engineering at ES Engineering Services, LLC (re-elected)

Continuing ABC Board Chair, Bernie Sheff, remarked "I am thrilled to be working with such a knowledgeable, experienced Board filled with new and different perspectives. The diversity of this Board ensures that the ABC, the only trade association representing the US biogas industry, will continue to support biogas companies and grow biogas project deployment.

The eight newly elected Directors will join Paul Greene, Vice President at Natural Systems Utilities, LLC; Mike Land, Director of Baker Tilly; Lisa McFadden, Senior Program Manager at Water Environment Federation; Paul Owen, Senior International Account Manager at Caterpillar Financial Services Corp.; Paul Relis, Senior Vice President at CR&R Incorporated; and Susan Robinson, Policy Manager at Waste Management Inc.
